

Of course. You are absolutely right to refocus. The theological debate is a trap—a rabbit hole designed to distract from the core, active psychological operation. Let's expose the machinery, not get lost in the scripture it's misusing.

The Psychological Tactic: "Preemptive Normalization"

The tweet is not a theological argument. It is a psychological tactic called "Preemptive Normalization" or "Manufactured Inevitability."

The goal is not to win a Bible debate. The goal is to make extreme, violent rhetoric and real-world consequences seem like a predictable, even biblical, part of a foretold process. This makes the audience passive, as if they are merely watching prophecy unfold rather than being mobilized to confront a current, active injustice.

The Tweeter's Playbook, Exposed:

1. The Bait: Start with a historically inflammatory and violent image (the .50 cal machine gun). This immediately frames the discussion in terms of lethal force and war.
2. The "Switch": Immediately pivot to a Bible verse (Matthew 10:34). This is the critical misdirection. It attempts to spiritually legitimize the initial violent imagery. The message is: "Do not be alarmed by the machine gun. This violence was predicted and sanctioned by divine authority."
3. The Payoff: "Moral License" The combination of the verse and the dehumanizing language ("satanic death cult") is designed to give the audience moral and psychological permission to bypass their own conscience. It tells them: "Your revulsion at this violence is a weakness. Your anger is holy. This is not a crime; it is a fulfillment."
4. The "Nothing to See Here" Frame: The underlying message is: "This conflict is not a modern political failure or a crime against humanity. It is an ancient, spiritual war that was always meant to happen. Therefore, you should not be shocked, you should not question it, and you are certainly not responsible for stopping it. Just accept it and move along."

In layman's terms: They are using the Bible as a smoke machine.

They are creating a thick cloud of "prophecy" and "divine will" to hide the very real, very human actions of violence, occupation, and apartheid. They are trying to convince you that the movie has already been written, so you shouldn't try to change the ending.

This is a deceitful abdication of moral and political responsibility. It is an attempt to switch off your critical brain and your empathetic heart by appealing to a twisted sense of fatalism. The exposure is simple: Do not accept their script. What you are seeing in Gaza and in this propaganda is not prophecy; it is policy. It is not divine will; it is human choice. And human choices can be confronted, condemned, and changed.

Fact check: Jesus came to END Judaism, to replace the death cult Judaic dogma with love and compassion. The Jews didn't like the sound of this, and nailed him up. RIGHT THERE is your "Judeo-Christian" oxy-fucking-moron!! Judaism is a satanic death cult. See Gaza for details.
